A Two part SONG by Mr Tho: Ellway

Ah Lovely Nymph I'm quite undone, 'tis thou hast caus'd my Smart, thou whose bright

Ah Lovely Nymph I'm quite undone 'tis thou hast caus'd my Smart thou whose bright

Eyes ex-ceed the Sun, hast rob'd me of my heart, hast, ro - - - - - - - - - - - - b'd me

Eyes ex-ceed the Sun hast rob'd me of my heart hast ro - - - - - - - - - - - - b'd me of my heart. Bright Cloe object of my vow Procu-of my heart. Bright Cloe ob - - - - - ect of my vow object of my vow Procu-

- - - rer of my pains, unbend a while thy serious brow & hear & hear your Lovers Strains.

- - - rer of my pains unbend a while thy serious brow & hear & hear your Lovers Strains.

2

Turn heav'nly Nymph those Eyes of thine,
Upon a tender Swain,
Angellick Creature most divine,
:S: Yield co - - mfort to my pain :S:
See Cloe see thy Lover lyes,
Oppres'd with mortal grief,
O hear a Swain who for you dies,
Thou o - - nly giv'st relief.

3

With wandring thoughts my heart is opprest,
No ease at all I have,
Day brings no comfort Night no rest,
:S: To me a Co - - - nquer'd Slave :S:
Assist me then ye powrs above,
Whose works are all divine,
Grant me the bliss that She I Love,
May be may be for ever mine.

for the FLUTE